Local Items.

Every one who has seen Mimmnaugh's line of clothing says it is the best in town.

The Wimborsboro Drug Store has presented THE NEWS and HERALD with a handsome paper weight of glass. It is just the thing we have been needing, and we wonder they have not given it sooner, as they seem to know what the people need.

Don't forget that Landerdale has on hand a big lot of writing paper and envelopes at the small price of ten cents per box.

Johnson's Magnetic Oil, horse brand, is a powerful liniment especially prepared for external use for persons and all diseases of horses and cattle. $1.00 size 50 cts.; 50 ct. size 25 cts. Wimborsboro Drug Store.

DOLL DRILL.—There will be a doll drill at Dr. Aiken's Friday night. Music and recitations and a further program will be carried out. A pleasant time is expected.

A HOT SUPPER.—There will be a hot supper at Prof. W. S. Durham's on Thursday night, November 8th, for the benefit of Poplar Springs Baptist Church. All are respectfully invited.

Do you want to buy a cloak or cape? Caldwell & Ruff have a handsome lot at bottom prices.

WHY SELL YOUR COTTON NOW?—The Standard Warehouse Company, of Columbia, are asking a question which every man wants answered. They are offering to hold cotton and make advances on it. Read their advertisement in our columns this morning and correspond with them.

THE SIGN—"READ IT IF YOU CAN."—Mr. F. W. Habenicht has removed the partitions in his store and has now a very commodious store-room well filled with such things as will make a sick man want to eat. He presents a bill of fare to you to-day in these columns which will make it unnecessary to wonder what you "will get for your money to-day." Read and go to see him.

They are still cutting and slashing prices on fine dress goods at Mimmnaugh's store.

THE INSURANCE COMPANY MUST PAY.—The Wimborsboro bar was represented in Chester at Court this week in the case of W. B. Estes against the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Fairfield County. Mr. Broom, a son-in-law of Mr. Estes, had insured a house in his own name which Mr. Estes wanted to convey to him; the house was burnt and the company took the ground that Broom was not the owner and that Estes had no policy with them. The jury however decided that they should pay the rightful owner and awarded Mr. Estes a verdict in the sum of $855. Messrs. Raggsdale & Raggsdale represented Mr. Estes and Messrs. A. S. & W. D. Douglass represented the Insurance Company. They will likely appeal.

Company Attention!—The Fairfield Light Dragoons will assemble for drill on Friday, November 2, at 2 o'clock. A full attendance must be had as business of importance is to be transacted. J. B. TURNER, Captain.

A SEIZURE OF WHISKEY.—United States Deputy Marshals Black and Moore made a raid Thursday in the Bear Creek section, eight miles southeast of Ridgeway and captured 100 gallons of mash and destroyed the still. No arrests.

A Fairfield Lady Married.—Miss Lizzie Kirkland, formerly of this county, was married in Columbia on last Wednesday evening to Mr. J. A. Maybin, of Newberry County. Among the bridesmaids were Misses McCrorey and McMeekin of our town. The bride is a daughter of Mr. J. M. Kirkland. After the ceremony the guests were invited to partake of an elegant dinner, after which the newly married couple left for Florence and other points in the lower part of the State.

THE RIDGEWAY RALLY.

The Crowd Small—Tillman Makes His Usual Speech—Cheered by His Followers—John Gary Evans' Explanations Unexplained.

The first principals of the Ridgeway rally to arrive were Gov. Tillman and Dr. Pope. They came on Friday evening. The train from Columbia on Saturday brought Messrs. John Gary Evans, John Gary Watts, A. G. Bookman, the newspaper reporters and a colored band. The train brought several men from Blythwood also. Arriving at Ridgeway it left two passengers and went on to Woodward. On returning to Wimborsboro there were about fifteen or twenty on board. The Fairfield Rifle Guards with about thirty men, in charge of Capt. T. M. Jordan, and eight or ten citizens, joined them here.

Rev. Jabez Ferris opened the meeting with prayer.

Mr. Evans was the first speaker. He spoke first of the constitution; had a copy with him. He declared the present constitution to be a menace to the rights and liberties of the people. It is opposed now by men who favored it until the Reformers got in power. The State and Charleston News and Courier had come suddenly to love the poor white man. This was the only opportunity the people would have, if they fail they are lost.

WHY IF THERE IS NO DIRTWOOD NOW. You can't get two-thirds of the Legislature to not. That change by the Legislature will never come.

WHY HAVE THEY NOT DONE IT? He said that under the present constitution negro children could attend white schools.

The reflection on the Confederate soldier in the constitution should be wiped out. The constitution had not been changed because negro lovers in Charleston and Columbia would not allow it. He was for abolishing the two-mill school tax. White men pay taxes to educate negro children. He jumped on the straightjacket and charged them with affiliating with the negroes. He did not fear them but they make him mad. He touched on the connection between Dr. Pope and the State.

His speech was cheered and he was full of fire and vim.

was received with cheers. He reviewed the long, weary and stumpy road he had traveled since '90. He first appeared at Ridgeway as a candidate and his last speech was there. He had not gone to negroes as predicted four years ago nor turned Independent. The only ring he knew was 'true people's ring, everybody joining hands. No Reformers had been disfranchised by the August primary. He charged the Independents with collusion with the negro. Those in Fairfield want to put you in a children of hell. He touched the constitutional convention, defended the matter of the poor man's disfranchisement. The Independents are patting Pope on the back. If the negroes put their hands in a white man's hand God have mercy on their souls. Mr. Thos. Sligh asked how he would disfranchise the negro and not the poor whites. He had not said he would disfranchise any one; he would not disfranchise the white and order to disfranchise the negro. He asked Sligh if he was not an Anti-Sligh man that had nothing to do with it. Tillman failed to answer Sligh. He evaded the question by asking Sligh why he did not join the white man's party. Mr. Sligh made some rough reply, and some friends told him it was folly to notice such replies. The Governor asked for a hand primary in favor of Evans marrying, and after the vote was carried to the hall stand.

The military parade was very creditable considering the chances, especially the Fairfield Rifle Guards. Dr. Pope spoke from the iron vantage of the hall over Cooper's store. He was fighting rings, it was the first time he had ever been denied the privilege of speaking at a Democratic meeting and some of those are Populists. He said he would be the next Governor; he had heard more appealing to passion and prejudice here to-day than ever in his life.

They did not discuss the dispensary law, but dodged the issue. Evans said the legislature could not change the constitution, but had to admit it could by a two-thirds vote.

Who has divided the people; any man who tries to is not worth your consideration. Tillman says he commenced here four years ago and I predict he ended here to-day. He only wanted a trusteeship once, but now he wants big office and must say who shall have the balance. He brought on his own troubles; he said the great dispenser of law and I besought him to stay his hand, but he shed the blood of our people to carry out his will. He rammed John Gary down your throats. God knows what hold Irbys has on him, but he went to Washington for Elie and an early convention and came back for Evans and a late convention. He put Evans in the saddle but the people will throw him out.

The reform party was against rings. I wrote Tillman in December '93 that a ring was being formed but he never opened his mouth or answered the letter. I told him I would stand no rings. Irbys said they are forming a ring in Columbia and said send delegates before the people. I refused to join the ring. I was offered a place (Secretary of State) on the ring ticket, refused it. But the whip cracked over the reformers and they would not stand to me. If elected I say here that I've got the manhood to do it and I will veto any dangerous law they pass. Go to the polls and vote against the constitutional convention, you don't know what you vote for and have no chance to pass on it. I oppose the dispensary, I thought it a good thing till I saw citizens shot down, women distributed at midnight without sanction of law for Tillman opened up without the consent of the board. It's a grand political machine to further their own ends. But obey it as it is declared to be the law by the highest Court. If elected I will be governor of the whole people, I beg you all to lay aside malice and come together for the common good of your country.

DOUGLASS-DWIGHT.

Eros has added another triumph to his numerous conquests, and two more human beings were made happy by the wily art of the little blind god on Wednesday night. The darts of the mischievous little nymph so often tipped with gall on this occasion was pointed with wit, joy, and gladness, and the wounds of his arrows will be a life-long happiness to the high contracting parties—Mr. W. D. Douglass and Miss Floride P. Dwight.

Mr. Douglass is a young but promising member of the Wimborsboro bar. Mr. Dwight is a daughter of the late Capt. Montrie and Mrs. Elizabeth Dwight, and one of the most beautiful and popular of our young ladies.

The ceremony took place in St. John's Episcopal Church, Wimborsboro, at 8 30 o'clock, on the 24th inst., the Rev. Theodore Patton officiating. The beautiful little church had been decked with most exquisite taste for the festive occasion by the hands of loving friends of the bride and groom. The pillars, wall and arches of the chancel of the church were festooned and draped with evergreens intermingled with roses, chrysanthemums and other choice flowers. Large urns of exquisite exotics and rare pot plants gracefully arranged on each side of the chancel added to the harmonious beauty of the scene. Above the altar in the deep-seated recesses of the Gothic window was a most pleasing effect was wrought by the artistic mixture of green, white and red—of palms, roses and lilies. Before the chancel railing was a white Siberian rug upon which the happy bride and groom knelt in the concluding part of the ceremony. The brilliant lamp-light pouring its splendour on that scene made a picture lovely to behold, and one which the assembled company will long remember.

Long before the hour for the marriage had arrived the church was packed by the numerous friends who had been invited to witness the ceremony. As the time drew near and the hands on the clock told of the minutes a breathless pause of expectation pervaded the expectant crowd, until at last the bridal party arrived, and the intense excitement broke forth in a subdued murmur and all eyes were turned toward the church door. The party formed outside the door in the following order: Messrs. M. W. Doy and J. W. Hanahan, the ushers, came first and marched up the aisle; then the groomsmen, Messrs. D. G. Dwight and F. H. Weston, all Gailford and M. Robinson, I. L. Withers and A. G. Douglass. Misses M. McMaster and E. Gerig, Lou Dwight and May D. Dose, Marie Dwight and Lou Ellison, the bridesmaids, and Miss Lil Dwight, the maid of honor, marched alone. Immediately afterwards came the bride leaning on the arm of her uncle, Capt. C. S. Dwight.

As the procession started up the aisle the organ pealed forth the deep strain of a wedding march, and as the solemn procession moved on Mrs. C. S. Dwight caught more and more the inspiration of the occasion and brought forth from the instrument a deeper, sweeter strain of harmony.

The ushers took their places one on the left and the other on the right at the steps of the chancel, in the body of the church; the groomsmen and bridesmaids formed in the same order in the chancel. As the maid of honor reached the chancel steps the groom, leaning on the arm of his best man, Mr. H. L. Elliott, Jr., came from the vestry room and met the bride as she reached the chancel. The officiating minister stood all the while beneath the high arch that separates the body of the church from the chancel. As the bride and groom met, the beautiful and impressive marriage service of the Episcopal Church was begun. After a portion of the same was gone through with the minister walked within the enclosed space before the altar; the bride and groom, the maid of honor and the best man followed and took their positions before the altar and the service was then completed.

The following are the contents: The bride—gown of ivory tulle with duchesse satin sleeves, garnished with Parisian lily and pearl ornaments of exquisite beauty and color. Bouquet of La Bride roses en conservation.

Maid of honor: Combination of satin and china silk in pinks adorned with real lace, exquisite bouquet of La France and Katherine Mermet roses.

Maids: The six bridesmaids were similarly attired in cream crepon decorated with white embossed satin. Bouquets of cosmos and maiden-hair ferns looped with broad ribbons of satin.

After the ceremony the bridal party, accompanied by a number of the friends of the bride and groom, returned to the residence of the bride's mother, where the congratulations of a host of friends were extended to the happy couple, after which the company was regaled with a most sumptuous feast. Between the examination of the numerous lovely presents and participation in delightful conversation the evening glided unperceptibly to its close. When the hour of 12 came the party must break up, every one regretted it because they felt that one of the most brilliant and enjoyable events of the season had passed.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglass left on the night train for a wedding tour to the North. The best wishes of our whole community go with them for a happy and prosperous life.

DEATH OF MRS. HARDEN.

Mrs. Isabel Harden, wife of Mr. Timothy Harden, died at her residence here on Wednesday afternoon just a little before five o'clock. She had been suffering with something like dropsy, but death resulted from heart disease. Mrs. Harden's death was not unexpected. Her health was bad during the summer and she had been to different mineral springs hoping to be relieved, but seemed to steadily get worse. Her sister, Miss Jane Gilber, was with her during her last days of illness, and the best nursing and medical attention was had, but the end surely came.

Being reared in the Presbyterian Church she connected herself with that church early in life. She leaves, of her immediate family, a husband and three grown sons to mourn her loss.

Her remains were interred in the Presbyterian churchyard on Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Has Our Reporter Some Enemies?

The reporter of THE NEWS and HERALD received a letter on a day or so since which opened with a startling announcement; so dreadful was the language that he looked carefully to see if his construction of it was correct. All men fear to die as a general proposition, and when a letter written you commences with the words "You must die," it makes one wonder how long before he is expected to be called upon in this cheerless act. But such was the language. The reporter knew he did not deserve such an imperative command, and with fear and trembling cast his eye quickly toward the signature. It proved to be the Acme Dye Works, of Columbia; so "our man about town" laughed out and said to himself that he reckoned he would have to dye that old black coat. It had the advantage that you will see "you must die," but don't get alarmed.

A hand-ome lot of capes and cloaks still on hand at Landerdale's that will be exchanged for a very small amount of money. A big reduction offered on these goods.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only cure that cures on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a tea-spoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.
